

Connecting Art & Spirit: MAKING YOUR MARK

Saturday & Sunday, March 17 & 18, 2012
9:30AM—4:30PM Edina Art Center

Registration deadline is February 17, 2012

This experiential workshop is designed to explore creative ways of encountering the soul's journey through art. All levels of lettering skills are invited, whether you use formal calligraphy, your own handwriting or gestural marks. Texture, creative writing and collage will be explored, as well as color, line and shape. These elements of design will provide the venue needed to enhance your calligraphy pieces and afford you stunning results for your painted backgrounds. Be prepared to experience new meaning in your art and a deeper appreciation of who you are as an artist. You will go home with your own personal handmade portfolio, which will be a beautiful creative container for your painted papers. (Visit www.rosiehuart.com to see more).

Fee: $90 Members; $125 Non-members*. Make checks payable to "Colleagues of Calligraphy".

I grew up surrounded by art. My father, a classically trained painter, taught at the Dayton Art Institute when I was very small, and I spent much time wandering the halls of that museum. While I don't have a fine arts background, I've always been interested in ways to stretch the use of words and letters beyond envelopes or a poem on the wall. Collage fascinates me. So when I met Rosie Huart at a gallery in Dayton, I was delighted to find in her an artist and teacher who owns the skills I covet. I was blown away by her award-winning work! Then and there, I knew Rosie would be a great match for our guild members who want to take their art a step beyond.
